Annie runs this great little café, close to the Citadel, and is the reason it is so good. She is a good cook and a welcoming host. We had read a good review so went on our second morning in Halifax and had a great breakfast - eggs, bacon, toast and fruit. With lots of coffee. Truly set us up for the day. We were heading out that day but pledged to come back, which we did on our final morning. She has loyal customers... read more. What User doesn't like about Annie's Place Cafe:

After 30 minutes we got 3 strips of reheated bacon and hard fried eggs. The floor under the moved table base was filthy and milk cartons on the table is a bit too rough. I can see nothing to recommend this place, including the pancakes which could double as hockey pucks. read more.
