What Christine L likes about Lemon Bistro:

Only one small drawback is that the menu is tiny but the food is great and worth trying! read more. In nice weather you can even eat and drink in the outdoor area. What sharchin doesn't like about Lemon Bistro:

The menu is not extensive but there is a small variety of meat, fish and pasta dishes. The prices are a bit steep for the amount of food served (e.g., $21 for 4 large pieces of beef ravioli) but they were made in-house and were delicious. The pork chop was well-flavoured and served with roasted potatoes and vegetables. The desserts are also made in-house and were wonderful. read more. Lemon Bistro is popular for its typical Canadian menus, which are prepared with ingredients typical of the country, and you will find genuine Italian cuisine with classics like pizza and pasta. If you'd like something sweet for dessert, Lemon Bistro does not disappoint with its extensive selection of desserts. At the bar, you can relax with a freshly tapped beer or other alcoholic and non-alcoholic drinks.
