We ordered spanakopita, and a main dish each. Food was good, although I found the potato a bit bland. Portions were nice and large though, so it's a great place if you are hungry. read more. The diner and its premises are wheelchair accessible and thus usable with a wheelchair or physical disabilities, and there is complimentary WiFi. If the weather are right, you can also eat outside. What User doesn't like about Mythos Taverna: Usually mythos is our go to place for Greek food but on this visit the service was absolutely dismal, the food was ok - not great. For almost 20 minutes not one person came to ask if we needed anything. The restaurant wasn't super busy. Even when the waiter took the order of the table beside us, he didn't look our way to see if we needed anything. Half of the lamb was fat. Even the milk for the coffee had gone bad. I...
