We took the recommendation of a staff member at the Birthplace of Lucy Maud Montgomery to visit the Blue Winds Tea Room for a light lunch. This tiny and welcoming spot, with lots of flowers all around was a perfect spot for a romantic stop. Great chowder, tasty tuna sandwich followed by the New Moon Pudding, using a Maud Montgomery recipe were all heavenly. The service was exceptional and the ambiance made it a very... read more. Plan on reservations, if they take them. We pulled up with a full minivan of seven people, but thought we'd be fine because only one car was in the parking lot. Unfortunately, when we went in, a lady working there told us rather rudely that they had no room for us and we shouldn't bother waiting because the family of five being served-the only customers- had just gotten there. We told them we didn't have to sit together... read more.
