Yes, the food is slightly more expensive for a family restaurant, but it was a good choice to get away from the crowds and just relax indoors for a bit. Megan was our server and she did everything she could for us, to the extent of bringing special things for our 6 year old daughter. The food was good, what I expected it to be. I'd come here again. We have always enjoyed visiting The Family Restaurant on Clifton Hill in the past and decided to return for a breakfast during this year's summer vacation. However, I would definitely not go back. Basically, most restaurants offer the same breakfast options. However, the difference is the price. At a different restaurant we paid $25, while here we paid about $44 for two people. This is definitely an eye-opener to sta... read more.
