Previous recommendations pretty much say it all. A small neighborhood eatery on a main thoroughfare, but if you blink you miss it. Parking is across the street to the right as being local, they don't have much. The friendliness is contagious and Dena greets the regulars lovingly. The breakfast food is the standard offerings, for Americans, try the pea bacon, thick slices, rather than small strips. They will accommodate... read more. In pleasant weather you can even eat and drink in the outdoor area. What User doesn't like about Dena's Home Cookin':

I was pleasantly surprised at the amount of meat in the breakfast combo but the "sauteed" mushrooms we had heard so much about turned out to be deep fried and squirting grease. The poached eggs had firm cooked yolks while the whites were still jiggly and undercooked. The server was unapologetic and only asked if I wanted the cook to throw the eggs on the grill to firm them up. After I struggled to spoon the runny egg... read more.
