Found this little gem driving through London for the first time. We split a bunch of appetizers and they were all delicious. The service was phenomenal, Carli was our server and she was amazing! The owner came out and chatted with us and was so friendly! Would definitely recommend this place to anyone in London and we will for sure be back! Thank you for the great experience!! What User doesn't like about Sweet Onion Grill:

Food is palatable and freshly made. I had the soup as a starter and then the fish and chips and my wife had a pita sandwich. The soup was really good but the fish and chips were nothing special at all. My wife thought here pita sandwich was quite good. Given the time it took to get served with our food it should have been brilliant. Not sure why it was so slow but we did notice that the waitress was serving both insi... read more.
