The restaurant also offers the possibility to sit outside and eat in beautiful weather. What User doesn't like about Marron Bistro:

This is a pretty meh restaurant. prices are very very high, but the outcome just isn't worth it. they have amazing ideas, at least the menu seems to say so, but actually doing it is sub par. stay away from the drinks, as they are watered down and barely have alcohol in them. Overall, will not be coming back, which is a shame, as there really isn't much kosher in Toronto read more. The original Canadian meals from Marron Bistro, prepared with products from the country, are famous. It's possible to chill out at the bar with a freshly tapped beer or other alcoholic and non-alcoholic drinks. In this locale there is also a comprehensive diversity of coffee and tea specialties not to forget. Additionally, of course, the atmosphere plays a big role, so the customers appreciate not only the fine menus, but also the bistro itself love.
