What User likes about Riviera Bakery: They said they have good canolis, and they weren't lying. Worth the trip into Little Italy. I had lunch in this basic, no frills bakery. They don't overfill the shelves with what doesn't sell, but stick to the good stuff. Great variety of bread, pastries, with a small deli counter. Will be back next trip to Toronto. read more. The place also offers the possibility to sit outside and have something in pleasant weather. What User doesn't like about Riviera Bakery: the cannoli are good, but they wouldn't be the best. the almond cookies were good, but not delicate as I like them for a bakery. the cookies were very hard as the package of Italian cookies in food business, but a bit...bigger the desserts looked very present and creatiw out, but a bit stale. I went to the riviera bakery during the Italian festival and was fresh and tasty I think it was a high turnover in considerati... read more.
