Definitely not a fancy dining experience at a big long communal table. You walk in, order at the till and the server will bring you your food at the shared table. The sashimi here is fresh and the portions are generous. The restaurant markets itself as sustainable and ocean-wise but I do not have enough info from the restaurant or its website/Facebook to agree or dispute the claim. read more. When the weather conditions is pleasant you can also eat and drink outside, And into the accessible spaces also come customers with wheelchairs or physical limitations. What Javonte Botsford doesn't like about Sushi Itoga:

We were desperately hungry and this served it's purpose. But the sushi unfortunately is nothing to write home about. It was ok. The uni is delicious but the other 4 rolls we had were just ok.
