located directly on the edge of the mighty river, this small hole in the wall' is not really so bad! I had the new yorker and eier. medium rare on the breed was before place! much taste and presentation was not too ashamed. do not expect inner fashion instruction or comfortable sitting, they come to this place for the raw experience! the person behind the grill is the main cook and bottle washer (and server) and pull... This tiny establishment is licenced and it's menu is reminiscent of an outdated 80's family restaurant. Sandwiches, hot dogs, burgers and breakfast, they need to throw some salads or wraps on the menu. Great views of the river make up for the utilitarian and somewhat sparse interior. Amazing location, however nothing else about this place stands out except the Red roof. read more.
