What User likes about Montgomery's Fish & Chips: Arrived hungry after a long day. Not a fan of "food court" foods but I make a couple of exceptions at the Quay and this is one. For a change I tried the prawns and chips - yum - six large juicy battered prawns cooked to perfection. Way too many fries, of course, but did finish them all with lots of malt vinegar. If you're lucky and it's a fine day you may be able to find a table outside and watch the world go by. read more. When the weather is nice you can also have something outside, And into the accessible spaces also come visitors with wheelchairs or physiological disabilities. What User doesn't like about Montgomery's Fish & Chips: I'm not a fish eater, but I do like chips and usually fish and chip shops have great fries. Unfortunately that was not the case with this shop. They were home fries and were cooked fresh, but they seemed rubbery and tasteless. A good chip doesn't require much more than a light sprinkle of salt, but I had to douse these in ketchup and vinegar to get them down. In retrospect I should've tried the burger shop next door...
