My family and I dined here on Sat night. Food was absolutely amazing. We ordered Hakka noodles with veg Manchurian and the meat platter. The only items we disliked were seekh kebab. The menu said the meat platter contains lamb chops, but we didn't get lamb chops, we received seekh kebab, which was very dry. The tandoori fish and chicken tikka was delicious. Noodles were amazing as well. Service was extremely slow, bu... read more. What Galina Vituk doesn't like about Bombay Blue Indian Hakka Cuisine:

We ordered masala tea, 9₹ for 2 cups. It's just tea with milk, no masala. In India, they asked how spicy dishes should be served, because Europeans are not used to spices. They did not ask and there is no taste or smell of spices. Prices are high and there are few people. They did not order more. I do not read more.
